09:07:58 From Eowyn Crisfield : Lovely to see so many of my students – current and former – welcome!

09:11:10 From Susan Stewart : Hi from London!

09:15:23 From Doline Ndorimana To Joanne Whitson(privately) : We finish at 11.00 or we can go over?

09:15:53 From Joanne Whitson To Doline Ndorimana(privately) : We can go over a couple of mins if we need to , but ideally finish at 11:00

09:16:04 From Doline Ndorimana To Joanne Whitson(privately) : thanks

09:16:52 From irenealkemade : How do you assess them? What tool do you use?

09:27:50 From Guillermo Duff To All Panelists : In your experience, how far does translanguaging help to develop a multilingual student's PiE?

09:28:27 From Guillermo Duff : In your experience, how far does translanguaging help to develop a multilingual student's PiE?

09:31:00 From Benjamin : Has there been any work to un-pick the impact of parents' level of educational attainment, from the impact of being EAL?

09:31:09 From Mindy McCracken To All Panelists : At the International School of the Hague Primary, we employ a whole school translanguaging approach, but also have explicit EAL support at every grade level. Our EAL students (after 3-4 years) reach grade level English proficiency and then go above this with more time.

09:35:36 From betty molerot : less with lots of repetition?

09:36:12 From Inka Szablinski : My school is pushing for a pre-made program and the Senior Leadership keeps arguing that there is a

"section" for ELLs. It is very frustrating.

09:38:41 From Benjamin : This is a paid for programme to increase literacy by studying etymology. Others are available, I have seen this one work. <https://lexonik.co.uk/>

09:38:45 From Duncan Kaiser : What about classic lit in Middle and High School? Example: Of Mice and Men. Too much or can be done with strategies mentioned here?

09:38:54 From Guillermo Duff : You have placed a lot of importance on vocabulary the presentation so far. Would you say that lexical development is more important in EAL than grammatical development, or development of awareness of discourse structure?

09:39:48 From Inka Szablinski : Strong readers become strong writers.

09:43:50 From Darlyne Delaney : Without vocabulary, though, there's not much the learner would be able to do with the grammar. They're both important to develop, I feel, but with sufficient vocabulary, most learners could be understood even if the grammar is not correct or fully present. Circumlocutions and translanguaging could fill in for some of the absent grammar.

09:44:01 From Kate Anderson To All Panelists : Question for Eowyn: How do you collect data about students' home language and how they acquired it, and what should be done with that information?

09:46:29 From Benjamin : Teaching subjects other than English. How best to support non native speakers to access text-books which were written for pupils in the UK?

09:47:35 From Rehema Munting : You mentioned Pearson PYP readers as being more diverse culturally? I would love more pointers on other readers that embrace that.

09:52:37 From Kam Chohan To All Panelists : Thank you for this amazing presentation

09:54:32 From Mitch Hughes : Are there any successful approaches to sight words/high-frequency words for EAL students?

09:55:30 From betty molerot : yes use visible thinking of the student

09:56:06 From Alina Guzganu : How can international schools collaborate to collect data and support research in this field?

09:56:18 From betty molerot : yesterday conference gave many digital tools to access texts

09:56:32 From Anna Da Silva To All Panelists : What are your views about a Multi-tiered system of support? Do you think this structure of support can sufficiently support EALs?

09:57:38 From Rehema Munting : Great question, Alina, I was wondering that too!

09:58:05 From Kate Anderson To All Panelists : Second that Alina and Rehema!

09:58:17 From Jenny Feinmann To All Panelists : My research into the factors affecting the spoken academic language development of multilingual 11 year olds suggested it was the development of vocabulary, particularly abstract vocabulary that takes time to develop. Also, that the students who progressed the fastest were those who had had the opportunities to develop academic language in one language before learning through English.

09:58:22 From Kate Anderson : Second that Alina and Rehema!

09:58:59 From betty molerot : collect and share too?

09:59:05 From Kate Anderson : Question for Eowyn: How do you collect data about students' home language and how they acquired it, and what should be done with that information?

10:00:03 From Loredana : Also co-teaching and co-planning can help in the propose of moving forward.

10:01:57 From Pilar Urrestarazu : Excellent presentations! Thank you very much!

10:02:10 From Magali Brutel : Thank you very much!

10:02:10 From Maria Franco : Gracias por toda las ideas tan útiles que habéis compartido. Thanks for all the useful ideas you have shared.

10:02:15 From Esther de Vries : Thank you!

10:02:17 From SharonHabesch To All Panelists : Thank you for this mornings presentations; very informative and inspiring

10:02:19 From Christine Guarino : Thank you so much for this very informative session! Well done!

10:02:20 From Marian Cazabon-Blok : Thank you!

10:02:22 From Darlyne Delaney : Thank you and have a Happy Friday!

10:02:22 From Sunitha Balakrishnan : Terima kasih

10:02:23 From Rehema Munting : Thank you so much!

10:02:24 From Carlos Rico : Very interesting. Thanks a lot!

10:02:24 From Gail Matheson : This was a great hour. Many, many thanks. So much good information. Much appreciated!

10:02:26 From Mes Naomi : Lots of things to think about. Thank you for sharing!

10:02:27 From Deborah Perrin To All Panelists : Thank you Vicky and Eowyn – as always great research based content translated into practice,

10:02:28 From Susan Stewart : Merci!

10:02:30 From Alexandra Knubel To All Panelists : Thank you :)

10:02:30 From Kate Anderson : Thank you, so much to think about.

10:02:31 From Kim Walker : Thanks to you both.

10:02:31 From MARIA SANCHEZ : Thank you!

10:02:33 From Mitzi Ingram : Thank you

10:02:33 From irenealkemade : Enorm bedankt – Thank you so much!

10:02:33 From Clodagh : That was brilliant, thank you

10:02:35 From Ana Blanxer : So much to reflect about! Gracias!

10:02:36 From pilarjimenez To All Panelists : Thanks so much! Inspiring!

10:02:37 From Stephanie Drynan : Wonderful, thank you so much

10:02:37 From Trish : Thanks so much.

10:02:38 From Kuldeep Matharu : thank you
