11:07:30 From Peter Jacobson : Viva Pluto!

11:11:15 From Kimbra : Kimbra in Shanghai here, SAS, ES Librarian. Loving this session. LEARNING to love weeding too, weeded over 1000 picture books this week! Yep, lots of treasures!

11:11:56 From Karen MacMeekin : Karen from AIS Budapest. I am currently weeding our non-fiction and it's about to get ugly (in a good way!)

11:12:36 From Lamiya Bharmal : Genrefying and Weeding is what I got around to making the most of the time when still in remote 11:13:09 From ktyo-dickerson : Ah, the zero dollars budget. Truly great options for lean-mean-times.

11:14:58 From ktyo-dickerson : For the necessary WEED, the CREW Method resources and complete manual:

11:15:00 From ktyo-dickerson : <https://www.tsl.texas.gov/ld/pubs/crew/index.html>

11:15:15 From Kristi Hovington To All Panelists : we just weeded over 5,000 NF from our collection too - and our library is so much better for it. It was a fun COVID project! we used colour coded labels for genrifying but I like the graphic labels used in this presentation better.

11:15:27 From ktyo-dickerson : <https://www.tsl.texas.gov/sites/default/files/public/tslac/ld/ld/pubs/crew/crewmethod12.pdf>

11:16:01 From Cara Keyman : Would you put those narrative nonfictions in their subjects.?

11:19:48 From Jeremy Willette : I love drawing those maps too. Really gets you to think about patron use, accessibility, what you want to highlight, traffic patterns and all. Fun!

11:21:14 From Kate Adams : It happens!

11:21:26 From Cara Keyman : How do you place the sections so that people can find them? How do you share the map?

11:21:27 From Sarah SIS : No worries!

11:22:12 From Sarah SIS : yes

11:22:40 From Sunita Malekar : This is so helpful because we are in the process of generifying the collection but due to pandemic we stopped it.

11:25:17 From Urania Beyer : This is also very helpful for an analysis of the collection in a practical way

11:28:04 From Lamiya Bharmal : Another way for cataloging in PYP schools - Transdisciplinary themes for non fiction

11:28:23 From Jeremy Willette : Those are cool!

11:28:49 From Catherine Bae : Even with funds, you can't find these pretty boards! Nice!!

11:29:57 From ktyo-dickerson : LOVE the bookstore feel of the signs.

11:30:01 From Jeremy Willette : Me too!

11:30:39 From Courtney Park : Looks Fabulous! I am so inspired!
11:30:45 From Jeremy Willette : Clever idea with the Kahoot!
11:31:37 From Jeremy Willette : That could be a great way to introduce students to sections, call numbers, etc. of the way your library is organized.
11:31:53 From Karen Van Drie To All Panelists : What's your school you are coming to in Istanbul?
11:32:02 From ktyo-dickerson : Brilliant, thank you Nicole!

awesome! Thanks for all the tips.
11:32:55 From fiona.shea : What a lot of creativity you've put into the project, thank you! You've given me loads of ideas for my library now
11:33:35 From Allan Ngetich : How did you manage to balance time between the non fiction generification process with other library tasks?
11:34:02 From Jeremy Willette : What do you find is a good balance between too few sections and too many sections?
11:35:55 From Carolyn Jeziorski--AISGZ To All Panelists : I had parent volunteers help sticker books and change their location in Destiny when we did our fiction section.
11:35:56 From Neev Library To All Panelists : Hi ! thank you for this. I have two questions: How did you arrange seating in the library, given COVID restrictions.

What was your weeding process- what made you decide what to keep and what to weed out apart from the obvious.

11:36:03 From Jeremy Willette : Do you interfile books in other languages within your collection or do you have a separate section for those?

11:37:41 From Carolyn Jeziorski--AISGZ : I had parent volunteers help sticker our fiction and then change the locations in Destiny.

11:37:59 From Kimbra : Thankful for parent volunteers

11:38:02 From Catherine Bae : Wow. We held the most number of students at one time.

11:38:20 From Carolyn Jeziorski--AISGZ : I started with parents pulling books but it was easier a d faster for me to do that.

11:39:23 From Jeremy Willette : Thanks, Nicole! Nice to see you!

11:39:28 From Sarah SIS : Thank you!

11:39:34 From folukeoludeeriksson : Very inspiring, great tips and
