

16:00:13 From Karen Van Drie : No worries, Kim. At your leisure!
16:02:11 From Jeremy Willette : Hello from Shanghai!
16:02:33 From ktyo-dickerson : Hi @Klaudia!
16:07:06 From Katie Day : Because I so admire Debbie Abilock and Noodletools....
16:07:18 From Brenda Rupp : I love noodletools!
16:07:21 From Courtney Park : Im in this room as a moderator and part of my responsibilities as a SIG member
16:07:22 From Kathleen McKim : I like to learn "librarian stuff."
16:07:24 From ktyo-dickerson : Because NoodleTools, Debbie Abilock, Honeybees, Inquiry
16:07:28 From Vinitha Mahesh : quite interested to know what's this Honeybee Project and ofcourse the collaboration
16:07:34 From Linda Hoiseth (she/her) : I love learning from my colleagues and I love Noodletools!
16:07:38 From Nicole Doyle : I like all the learning at ECIS.
16:07:43 From Ebru AVCI : I like to learn new things
16:07:45 From Klaudia Janek : I'm here to just learn and experience a conference that I've never been to :)
16:07:48 From Katrina Lehman : Because I'm sure that's something more I could learn about NT!
16:07:54 From Klaudia Janek : Hi @Kim :)
16:07:56 From Melissa Cavender : Of course, I love Noodletools!
16:07:59 From Helle Kirstein : Love to learn more
16:08:03 From Zakir, Zurich : to explore ways we can collaborate with teachers and the broader school community
16:08:05 From Cara Keyman : Because We use NoodleTools and think it's so useful for students
16:08:07 From Karen Van Drie : Because I know the ECIS Librarians will create great programs.
16:08:08 From Klaudia Janek : I am also a big fan of NoodleTools and RefLEQ!
16:14:11 From Klaudia Janek : This is exactly what happens during the Personal Project and Extended Essay. It's like I professionally live this timeline.
16:17:03 From Jeremy Willette : I like this set of questions.
16:24:17 From Jeremy Willette : That a-ha moment gives students that needed focus and purpose!
16:24:28 From ktyo-dickerson : It takes a LOT of time!
16:24:53 From ktyo-dickerson : Always underestimated.
16:25:14 From Leslie Maniotes : Yes!!
16:26:57 From Courtney Park : I'm totally googling honeybees playing golf..
16:27:08 From Jeremy Willette : Haha. Me too!
16:27:52 From Leslie Maniotes : Debbie has the video you'll get a link to it in the end of our session! :)
16:28:16 From Klaudia Janek : I mean....this is totally what students do.
16:29:25 From ktyo-dickerson : I ask my students to do this!
16:29:47 From ktyo-dickerson : They always have a great experience, connecting with experts in the field.
16:31:51 From Jeremy Willette : Thank you so much for sharing your learning process and this metacognition. So great for students to see thinking about thinking!

16:31:57 From ktyo-dickerson : YES!
16:32:02 From Courtney Park : Yay!
16:32:04 From ktyo-dickerson : I can't wait!
16:39:36 From Events ECIS To Courtney Park(privately) : We can probably run till 4:50 ish if needs be
16:39:42 From Courtney Park : EE for sure! Such a similar process for students
16:39:49 From Klaudia Janek : I think this makes me think about how to revise certain projects and timelines...
16:40:02 From ktyo-dickerson : When I have said, "I should write an EE every year to remind myself of the student experience"and I run out of time...
16:40:20 From Linda Hoiseth (she/her) : This process feels very familiar for extended projects like the EE. I wonder about how to apply this learning to shorter time frames.
16:40:36 From Linda Hoiseth (she/her) : For smaller projects within their classes.
16:41:15 From ktyo-dickerson : ...it tells me that we need to be more aware of the process within the EE schedule, and to VALUE the finding focus aspect.
16:41:22 From Jeremy Willette : I do a lot of work with students on questions at the start. I am thinking of how to help them develop their thinking even more at the beginning with more question techniques. Thank you for this presentation. Questions are so important!
16:41:25 From Leslie Maniotes : Guided Inquiry Design has some authentic ways to support students - structures
16:42:00 From Klaudia Janek : There needs to be time to revise research questions ...
16:42:20 From ktyo-dickerson : Ross Todd at ECIS Berlin introduced me to Guided Inquiry and I haven't looked back...always using it, having Ss map their progress through the ISP, really front loaded for my EE Ss.
16:42:32 From Leslie Maniotes : AWESOME Ktyo!!
16:42:38 From Jeremy Willette : Good questions take longer, but it saves research frustration and burn-out in the end.
16:42:47 From ktyo-dickerson : The link between action and emotions is so powerful.
16:44:00 From Jeremy Willette : Bravo, Debbie! So true!
16:44:30 From ktyo-dickerson : 1:1 time is so important for real listening.
16:45:42 From Melissa Cavender : Thank you!
16:45:48 From Klaudia Janek : Thanks!
16:45:49 From ktyo-dickerson : Thank you all!
16:45:53 From Jeremy Willette : Huge thanks!! Great presentation!
16:46:04 From Helle Kirstein : Great presentation - thank you so much!
